Christi words always fail me at a time like this. But I want you to know that your sunshine Braelynn was a fighter. However the battle she was fighting became to much for her. She knew she couldn't win this one, so she decided to become your guardian angel. She is going to watch over and love you from heaven where there is no pain and fighting for her. She knows you tried your best to make her whole. So at night when you are thinking of her look up in the sky one of the star shining brightly will be her watching you. Braelynn would want you to follow your dreams. So Shine bright sweet girl. Love you Aunt Barb
