Dick Hummel lived life with a no fear optimism that he conveyed to everyone around him. He did not know a stranger and would immediately jump in to help solve a problem, anytime, anywhere. My years spent as his show neighbor at The Scott Antique Market were a daily lesson in life and people skills. I guess it's my job to say, he did not hold back. We all knew, if you didn't want the question answered, you'd best not ask. And we all cherished him for that. He was as good a friend as I've had. He loved his family, he loved all of us and he loved Jesus. Enough said.
